English Add-on Course: Explore English through the Lens of World Classics

The English Department proudly introduced an enriching add-on course, Explore English through the Lens of World Classics, designed to enhance students' language comprehension through timeless literary masterpieces. This immersive 30-day program brought learners closer to the beauty of world literature, offering simplified versions of renowned classics while blending language learning with the joy of storytelling.

A cohort of 30 enthusiastic students embarked on this literary journey, exploring fables, myths, epics, and novels that have shaped world literature. Through interactive discussions, role-playing, storytelling, and creative exercises, they developed a deeper understanding of language, narrative structures, and cultural contexts.

The course culminated in a comprehensive assessment, comprising a written exam (50 marks) and a viva voce (10 marks), ensuring that students not only appreciated the richness of these classics but also honed their analytical and communication skills.

This initiative, coordinated by Hafsath Udumbra, Assistant

Professor of English, under the guidance of Professor KP AbduRasheed, Head of the English Department at MUAC, stands as a testament to the transformative power of literature. By making the classics both accessible and engaging, the course successfully bridged language learning with intellectual growth, leaving a lasting impact on its participants.
